Captured City and Transport of Turkish Government As Well As Landing Troops On African Soil--United States To Remain Neutral--Turkey Will Not Give Up the Struggle Without Fighting For Its Right and Holding All the Territory That It Can.

London, Sept. 30.—The events of the war between Turkey and Italy are thus summarized today.

The report of Provera's bombardment.

AMERICAN MAY LEAD TURKISH NAVY AGAINST ITALY.

Buckman Pasha—Capt. Ransford D. Buckman—vice admiral of the Turkish navy and an American.

Should there be more hostilities between Turkey and Italy, it might fall to the lot of an American to command some of the operations of the Turkish navy.

Buckman Pasha—Capt. Ransford D. Buckman—holds the rank of vice admiral in the Turkish navy and when in 1906 there was danger of war between Turkey and England Buckman was decided upon to direct whatever naval maneuver should be necessary. His friends here say he will be invested with similar authority should the present crisis result in war.

Buckman originally commanded a whaler in the coast trade between Newport News, Baltimore and Boston. His work later with an American shipbuilding company which constructed a warship for Turkey, attracted the attention of representatives of the sultan who offered him a position in the Ottoman navy.

by the Italian fleet. Government boats destroyed and Turkish torpedo boat disabled.

Italian troops reported landed west of Tripoli.

Turkey asks the United States to take charge of Turkish subjects in Italy. Turkey addressed another appeal to the powers saying there is still time to prevent the evil effects of a conflict.

The impression prevails in diplomatic quarters in Berlin the conflict be short duration.

An unconfirmed report says that bombardment of Tripoli began this morning.

Are Enthusiastic.

Rome, Sept. 30.—The declaration of war against Turkey has been received with enthusiasm in all parts of the country. Great processions were organized at Genoa, Milan, Bergamo, Parma, Bari, Veroli, Perugia. The crowds singing patriotic songs and acclaiming the army and navy.

A news dispatch from Tripoli says a boarding party from the Italian squadron took possession of the Turkish transport Derna at Tripoli. The transport made no resistance.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—No hostilities here up to the present. There reports in the native circles which say the troops have landed westward of Tripoli.

Note Sent Out.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Italy today sent a circular note to the powers explaining the reasons for the action against Turkey expressing a hope the steps taken will be confined to the occupation of Tripoli, that the hostilities be a short duration and that negotiations to fix a status of Tripoli will be begun soon. The note closes with the assurance that the steps taken are in the interests of humanity and civilization.

Saloniki, Turkey, Sept. 30.—Italian naval division today bombarded seaport Provera, destroying government houses and sinking Turkish torpedo boat in harbor.

Official Statement.

Rome, Italy, Sept. 30.—The Duke of Abruzzi reported to the government today that he established a blockade of the Turkish port of Provera yesterday. Two torpedo boats attempted to escape, he telegraphed, "We engaged one which stranded after catching fire."

Turks Drowned.

How many Turks were drowned as result of beaching off Provera of two transports, which Italian gun boats were pursuing is uncertain, but it is reported that several hundred lost their lives. The Turkish commander is said to have run the boats recklessly upon the rocks to escape the capture.

feelings of the powers," to prevent consummation of the Italian grab of Tripoli. The note will be sent at once to all the most important European capitals.

Provera is a Turkish seaport of about 7,000, mostly Greeks and Albanians. Martial law was proclaimed in Constantinople this afternoon as a precaution against a reactionary uprising against the young Turkish government. The Turkish fleet under Admiral Buckman, the American, also arrived here from Beirut today. A nation-wide boycott on all Italian goods has been begun.

Sink Italian Boats.

It is confirmed that the Turkish fleet reported off Chios in the Aegean sea has sunk two cargo loads of Italian soldiers who were presumed to have been trying to land on Turkish territory. The Italian fate is unknown.

Seek Freedom.

Chios, Sept. 30.—The Cretans notified their representatives in Italy today they did not intend to permit the opportunity afforded by the Tripoli affair to pass without obtaining their long desired annexation to Greece.

Wait Time Limit.

Rome, Sept. 30.—The Messagero announces the government acting under the provisions of the international law is allowing twenty-four hours to elapse between the summons to surrender and the bombardment of Tripoli. That period expires at six this evening and the bombardment will then begin.

Seeks More Territory.

London, Sept. 30.—Turkey made it clear to all Europe today that it will submit to no more losses of its territory without a desperate fight. European statements, always fearful that war anywhere in the world, once started, will spread beyond control, hoped when Italy declared war yesterday that it would yield.

Is Ignored.

The Turks ignored all suggestions. They may lose Tripoli, but propose to make up the loss by territorial acquisition somewhere else. The Turks are convinced that a partition of their entire country is imminent and as the committee of union and progress expressed in a proclamation issued today.

Death to Dishonor.

"The Ottoman nation prefers death to dishonor" and if it must perish it will. The soldiers aboard faced death with the utmost courage and unconcern.

Seizes Transport.

Rome, Italy, Sept. 30.—The Italian squadron of Tripoli has seized the Turkish transport Derna, which arrived off the port Thursday bearing the new Turkish governor of the province, munition of war for the garrison there and reinforcement of troops. The Turks did not resist.

Diplomats Busy.

Vienna, Austria, Sept. 30.—With the news that actual fighting between Italy and Turkey, European diplomacy is straining every nerve toward narrowing the field of war.

It is recognized that the Turkish-Hungarian struggle may speedily involve practically every one of the greater old world powers, unless most strenuous efforts are made to prevent.

Keep Wires Hot.

Vienna, Sept. 30.—Fighting is in progress today on the Turkish-Greek frontier. It is believed to be no more than mere skirmishing as yet but everything indicates that it is merely preliminary to a general Turkish-Greek campaign.

It was the Turks who took the aggressive against Greece under the impression that the latter would attempt to annex Crete under conceal of the Turkish-Greek war.

On Austrian Frontier.

Vienna, Austria, Sept. 30.—Italy began mobilizing troops today on the Austrian frontier. The move is not understood here. The Rome government has long been known to harbor designs for the recovery of its Austrian provinces. Nevertheless there is much excitement in Austrian government and military circles.

Drafts Appeal.

Constantinople, Turkey, Sept. 30.—The cabinet drafted an appeal today to the "friendly and humanitarian feelings of the powers," to prevent consummation of the Italian grab of Tripoli. The note will be sent at once to all the most important European capitals.

We Have Learned a Lot About Shingles

Since we first hung out our shingle and particularly red cedar shingles—always have known they were good, but our close observation has taught us that while all shingles may look alike, they don't wear alike. Maybe you've noticed the same thing. Well, there's a reason for it. We found the trouble starts with their drying and if you buy shingles that have been hurriedly put through the dry kiln, under excessive heat, you will surely be disappointed. Maybe ours cost a little more because of the slow drying, but first cost and longevity of the roof should be considered together. The last car we unloaded was a pipkin—came in and look at these shingles—won't cost a penny to look or ask questions.

BALANCED BOOKS OF BIG CELEBRATIONS HELD DURING JULY

Treasurer Gollner Reports All Bills Paid and Celebration Committee Adjourns Sine Die.

At a meeting held at five o'clock Friday afternoon in the offices of the Industrial and Commercial club, the final business of the recent military celebration held in Janesville, July 2nd, 4th and 5th, last, was completed, the accounts audited and approved, and the committee went out of formal existence, adjourning sine die.

According to the report of the treasurer of the committee, John Gollner, a total of $7,499.39 was handled by the committee, the receipts being divided into the following items: From sale of bonds, $4,835; cash subscriptions, no bonds raised, $138; old balances turned over by former treasurer, $49.00; program, $25; carnival, $240.70; tickets at fair grounds, $1,954.39; concessions, $627.50. A total of $7,499.39.

The expenditures were divided into $1,885, the forty-one per cent paid back on the bonds issued; cash paid for bills, $112.70; bills paid by checks, $5,022.47, leaving a balance in the treasury of $79.22. The bills and receipts are all on file in the office of Secretary Lane of the Industrial and Commercial club as well as the itemized statements of each committee chairman, the stubs of the bond issue and the bills of the subscribers with their receipts for payment of the reimbursement of the bond issue.

The committee consisted of Carl Buchholz, chairman; John Gollner, secretary and treasurer; P. E. Lane, George A. McKay, David Atwood, Edward Fetter, Geo. Busch, and Albert Scott. Five members of the Harry L. Gifford Camp 23, of the United Spanish War Veterans and three from the Industrial and Commercial club. The camp appointed its members some months before the celebration was planned and the Industrial and Commercial club named Mr. McKay and Mr. Gollner as their representatives and later Mr. Lane was added to the committee at the request of the entire joint committee.

While fully twelve thousand persons attended the sham battle at the Park Association grounds on the afternoon of July 4th, the receipts, including those secured for grandstand tickets, were less than two thousand dollars, showing that fully half of those present did not pay any admission at all. The appearance of a state treasury agent on the scene the Sunday before the celebration opened with orders to collect the state tax from all peddlers from outside the state also decreased the receipts from this particular source of revenue.

Another losing venture by the committee was the series of ball games. The receipts from this fell far below even the advertising expenses and went on the debit side of the ledger. The same was true of the dances. The rink had been rented but not enough persons appeared to even pay the electric light bill. These were some of the drawbacks the committee had to contend with, as well as the rules in all prisons from persons selling goods to the committee representatives. These went up in value.

One of the amusing incidents of the entire celebration was the collection of the bond issue. One man who borrowed money from a friend and from one of the committee to make up his bond of $25 finally decided not to take a bond at all and even forgot to return the money borrowed as well. In fact refused to do so. Another amusing feature was the man who purchased a bond and when he did not receive the full value back, returned his check and stated he had merely loaned the money to an individual member of the committee and really collected it from him.

However, taking it all in all, the committee received the warmest kind of support from the citizens generally and the success of the entire affair satisfied the residents of the city generally. It was a huge undertaking and took considerable time of the individual members of the committee, but the ends justified the means taken to put Janesville on the map.

LINK AND PIN. IMPROVEMENTS AT THE ROUNDHOUSE

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Install Electric Lights Where Needed.

This week witnessed a busy crew of electricians engaged in the work of installing a lighting system in the roundhouse at the Milwaukee yards, which is an improvement long wished for by the night employees of the shop, and also of the road. The electricians, especially, hail this improvement with enthusiasm as with the kerosene lamps formerly used they did not throw sufficient light so as to convenience the handling of the engines in and out of the roundhouse with safety. The crew of electricians will complete their work this afternoon and the lights will be lighted for the first time tonight.

The yard employees have been putting in the winter's supply of coal for the depot this week.

The Stanley Country

100,000 acres of choice Hardwood Lands in the Heart of the Clover Belt of Wisconsin.

The cut over Hardwood Lands in the Stanley Country have all the natural conditions necessary for successful silviculture, such as climate, soil, pure water, and an abundance of Clover and wild grasses. When the timber is cut, the clover becomes king and creates pasture unsurpassed anywhere, thus paying for the expense of preparing the soil for the raising of small grains, etc. The soil is a mellow clay loam and will raise such products as are raised on the open lands in Iowa and Illinois.

Land can now be bought in this country at prices ranging all the way from $12.50 to $20 per acre, with liberal terms. Write to me for literature, or better yet, come in and let me talk to you.

College Elevens Play First Games of Football Today, Although a Number of the Big Team Postpone Opening Until Next Saturday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Today marks the real opening of the football season in the middle West, although several of the college teams made their debut a week ago, while others will begin their schedules until next week. The outlook for a successful season is regarded as promising. Minnesota is reported as having fully as good a team as last year, when the Gophers disputed with Michigan the championship of the West. Illinois, which also claimed the championship is back with as strong if not a stronger team than last season, and Illinois and Indiana likewise have put forth formidable eleven in the field. At Michigan the coaches are reported to be well satisfied with the outlook. Iowa rejoices in the return of practically all of its veterans of last year, and Indiana is hopeful of doing even better than in 1916.

Michigan again is an unknown quantity, as are Chicago and Northwestern. "The strong teams, however, are not confident of their "big eight" or to Michigan, Notre Dame and Marquette will be well up in the running and Nebraska is considered on a par with some of the "big eight" eleven. Lake Forest, Holst, Knox and Wabash, not to mention Michigan Agricultural College, which beat some of the best last year, are expected to be found near the front when the season closes.

The most important game scheduled for today is that between Minnesota and Iowa State College at Northport, Illinois. Indiana will play DePaul at Bloomington and Ohio State will face Otterbein at Columbus.

Hockett Alleys Will Open on Monday and Bowling League Will Commence Games October 16.

Monday will see the formal inauguration of the howling season for the fall and winter in Janesville at the Hockett howling alleys on North Main street, which will be under the management of George Parker. Plans are being made for the formation of a howling league and the alleys have been repaired and are now ready for use. A party from the Chicago branch headed by Drumsawick-Halke-Colebender expect from Milwaukee, on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, those interested in the sport will hold a meeting at Hockett's to organize a league, elect captains and make plans for the season. There will be but four teams in the league this season and the opening date is set for October 16.

This season was one of the most successful seasons the sport has seen in this city and the interest taken in bowling teams to be increasing year by year. In 1916-17 there were six teams in the league and the teams were called the Butternuts, Chestnuts, Walnuts, Coconuts, Doughnuts and Hazelnuts, giving the league the popular nickname of the "Natty League." The Butternuts, comprising George Helson, captain, George Rueck, Clark Howard, George Baumann and Clarence Sullivan, got off a good lead at the beginning of the season, held it all the way through and won the championship by a safe margin.

Fully as much interest in the sport is shown this year as last and although there will be but four teams in the league, the fight for the title will probably be harder fought and more exciting.

Great Racing Plant in Mexico City Will Be Operated This Winter Along American Lines.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 30.—Under American management, the capital's first racing plant, inaugurated last year, and the second of the first Mexican Jockey club will be operated this winter along American lines. The plant has been leased from the Jockey club, Mexico's most fashionable and exclusive organization, by Matt. J. Winans, an American, and his associates. The new track, widely known as the Comden track, was the utilization of a dream of many years on the part of the Jockey club, although members of that organization are for the most part not racing men, despite the name of their club. To that fact is attributed their failure to make racing a success. Under the new arrangement, the club will yet have an advisory interest in the track, but the active management will lie with the Americans. It is proposed to open the track during the latter part of October, racing on three days a week, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

A Fresh Air Fallacy.
If you want to purify your blood, it is of little value to inflate your chest in pouter pigeon fashion. The blood in your lungs takes up just as much oxygen as your muscles call for, and no more. Exercise your legs instead of your diaphragm and chest. Even the inhalation of pure oxygen in diseases of the lungs has yielded disappointing results and is gravely questioned as to its theoretical basis—

George Damerel Headed Good Cast in Pleasing Musical Comedy at Myers Theatre Last

Evening.

What proved to be a very pleasing musical production with a number of catchy songs and plenty of comedy lines, "The Heart Breakers" was presented to a crowded house at the Myra theatre last evening.

The cast last evening was very well balanced and with Mr. George Damerl and Miss Ruth MacDonell in the leading roles, was supported by such actors as John Fogarty, Miss MacDonald and Chas. Horn, was all that could be desired. The songs were most attractive and were well delivered, for the most part, by a clever chorus. The production possessed more than the usual run of a comedy plot, which was thoroughly appreciated. Among the especially applauded song hits were, "Some Golden Day," sung by Miss Penblett, and "Chorus;" "My Reminiscent of Love," by Paul and chorus, and "Somewhere She's Flirting With Someone," George Damerl and chorus.

Coincidence. In Names.
In a New York public school one of the teachers has four pupils whose names are the same as her own, and the principal and the janitor got each other's mail for the same reason. Another singular thing in this line occurred not long ago on the East side, where the clergyman and the man and woman whom he married had the same name.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"There are liars who are cruel, there are liars who are kind, but the latter are the subjects of my song: They are making people happy, and I truly cannot find That such gentle unworldliness is wrong. For the gentle liar whispers what we dearly love to hear: 'If we're skinny, he will tell us we are fat, And he works it vice versa; but it certainly is clear That St. Peter wouldn't shut him out for that.'"

"When you're broke and flabbergasted and you show it in your face, Then the gentle liar bubbles up to you, And he says, 'My boy, you're looking like a winner in the race, With the others clear behind and out of view! When you're sick he says you're better, And he laughs your fears away, Entertaining with his most mendacious chat; And although to make you happy his voracity's astray, St. Peter wouldn't shut him out for that.'"

"He tells the dumpy people that he likes 'em better small, He tells the ugly people they are fair; He has a merry fairy tale to fit 'em one and all, And he scatters gentle falsehoods everywhere. Our faults—he makes them smaller, our virtues magnifies (And surely none could take offense thereat); For his heart is overflowing with a kindly stream of lies, And St. Peter wouldn't shut him out for that!'"

—Cleveland Press.

What constitutes a lie has always been a debatable question, and whether an untruth is ever excusable continues to be a fruitful topic for discussion.

There are all kinds of liars who mingle with the busy throng, and they invade every channel of activity. Political, professional, business and social life is honeycombed with people who have but little regard for the truth, and the church is in no way exempt.

Some good people are possessed of the notion that a prayer of words is the only sort of petition which reaches the throne, and are free to criticize others whose voices are never heard in public pleading.

This conception of prayer is an erroneous one, and a good vocabulary is necessary to lying. The fact is that the man who prays the loudest, will sometimes bear witness, while the man who lies in a good, strong tone of voice, is seldom dangerous.

The writer of an old hymn gave this terse definition of supplication, "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed." Another ancient author says: "It is willful deceit that makes a lie," and words are by no means necessary to deception.

The short box with false bottom and the heavy weight scales are inanimate things, but they express the lie more eloquently than words, and stringent laws are necessary to remedy the evil.

across her knee and asks no questions, and thus saves the little chap from telling a falsehood.

From the home to the school the boy cultivates the habit, and by the time he reaches the college, he is so much of an expert in the art of deceiving that the faculty find him to be a star performer.

The deceptions incident to childhood and youth are not necessarily tokens of depravity. They belong to normal conditions during the irresponsible period of life and usually correct themselves in the school of hard knocks, for children and young people soon tire of trying to deceive each other.

It is a trite old truism that other people know our children much better than we know them. The mother is about the last person to discover that her boy smokes, and perhaps occasionally takes a drink, but it is no news to the neighbors. And the daughter deceives her just as easily, but seldom fools the people across the way.

Statistics show that this country supports an army, nearly half a million strong, composed of people who are not classed as criminals, and yet who live by deceiving others. They deal in all sorts of schemes for getting rich quick and the American people are easy victims, for the most of us possess a mania for trying to get something for nothing.

But deception, which is simply a diplomatic term for lying, is not confined to this class of schemers, for human nature is very much alike in many ways, and a sprinkling of deceit is a common characteristic.

Many of the unhappy homes in the land are victims of deception which dates back to the years before the home was founded, for the honeymoon revealed the fact that the man and woman who had pledged their troth, possessed but little in common, and that the thing called love, which deceived them, was simply a fleeting dream.

The wonder of it is that more homes do not belong to this class, for courtship seldom sees below the surface, and the awakening which comes with closer relations is likely to prove a revelation in many ways. The head of the little sentiment at the heart of this column had in mind the cheerful liar, and found much to say in his favor. This class of prevaricators is composed of people who are not only optimistic themselves, but who believe in making other people happy at the expense of truth, if necessary.

The man in public life who has at his disposal half a dozen phony, assures every last one of the half hundred applicants, that they are slated for the position, and everybody is happy until the gray dawn of the morning after finds out the most of the confiding bunch in the cold. And all the consolation that comes to them is the suggestion that all is fair in love and politics, and the statesman goes on developing statecraft and only the soreheads call him a liar.

If you ascribe to a place in the ranks of the "400" you are flattered when the society woman greets you with a patent smile and says, "Come and see me." But you never call but once because the frosty atmosphere suggests that your hostess was not quite sincere when the invitation was given.

The business and professional world has its full quota of cheerful liars; men who put you on the back and say, "I can't pay you today, but come in tomorrow or next week," and the next day is equally satisfactory.

The man who dozes through half the morning service, in the corner of his pew, and then greets the pastor with a glad hand, as he walks down the aisle, and tells him how much he enjoyed the sermon, represents one of a number of classes of cheerful liars which infest the church.

It is not a difficult task to deceive others, and it is possible, by long continued practice, to so thoroughly deceive ourselves that life becomes a dual existence. It pays to be honest with ourselves, with our God, and with our fellow men, remembering that the highest order of service is service to humanity.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

Copyright, 1911, by C. N. Mather.
THE DAILY VERSE.

It's not so very difficult to grind out daily verse. In fact, there are some other jobs that are a whole lot worse. There need not be a pin to it. It winds out every time.

If you can just succeed in ending up with words that rhyme, for instance, take a word like "hat." There's bat, rat, cat, fat, mat, put, sat, vat, nat, chat and spat. But here's one warning: Never try to rhyme it with "lect."

Most any old idea will do, so let your fancy run. Because you know there's not a thing that's new beneath the sun. Just sit right down and start right in and simply trust to luck. And if you make the words rhyme right, you never will be stuck. For instance, if you're writing on that cherished subject "home,"

You've got to have a typewriter that knows its business well. One that will turn out perfect rhyme, the kind that you can sell. For instance, if you're writing verse on "epileptic fits,"

There are some words that you can use like grins, mits, kits, and fits. But never try to rhyme with it a thing like "beaux esprits."

TARDY.
Whenever I go into a show, I'd like right here to state, I most admire and never tire of folks who come in late. They're always fat and smash your hat as to their seats, they squeeze. They tread your toes and crush your nose and bark your shins and knees. They move so slow, you miss the show right in the choicest place. They screen your view and walk on you, and poke you in the face. They grumble and complain upon your nerve and, as if to glare you into a corner, they say, 'When six or eight of them are late and come all in a bunch and mow your hair, your necktie tear and jump you in your lunch. You miss an act and that's a fact, and ere they're through, perhaps some one or two will fall on you and land right in your lap. They break your leg and then they beg your pardon not a bit as they should do, but growl that you had been the cause of it. Before they sent their crowd complete, they stand their feet for a while till all may view their clothing new and comment on their stile. 'Twould be a joke if these swell folk should find the party auto closed right on time in heaven's elms when they arrived there late.

SELDOM, IF EVER.
Here's a list of funny things that we never saw: Whiskers on an Indian. Tube feet on a squaw. Real blonde hair upon the stage, Jew without the price, Good joke on a comic page, Wedding without rice, Diamonds on an editor, Strict dope on a light, Woman's hat that's worth the cost, Flea that wouldn't bite, An auto car that wouldn't smell, Football that was same, Lawnmower that was ever loaned, And got back again, Chorus girl without a divorce, Duke that had a cent, Any man who never would, Kick about his rent, Sermons that were short enough, Cuke of ice too big, Teardrop that suited every one, Good fit on a wig, And the head of any house With no bills to pay— He's about the rarest thing in this age and day.

NEVER RECEIVED HER.
Mr. Erasmus J. Proudfoot was the husband of a suffragist, a fact well known to himself and to the neighborhood in which he resided. Nobody ever had an opportunity to forget who were the bifurcated garment in his household. It had been many round, pale moons since Mr. Proudfoot had been able to tear himself away from his own fireside in the evening. Upon this eventful evening he had decided to issue his declarations of independence.

"I will be quite casual to Mrs. Proudfoot," it was his plan to break the thing gently, but firmly, and to stand by his colors to the bitter end. "Is that so?" she asked with a slight touch of polite sarcasm. "May I ask why, pray?"

"I have a directors' meeting," "No you haven't. Your board of directors always meets in the afternoon. Mr. Jones told me so."

"Well, then, I have an old college friend from out of town, and I promised to spend the evening with him."

"Old stuff!" snorted Mrs. Proudfoot. "You act as though I was a tenth-century vaudeville audience ready to bite on anything. If you have an old college chum in town you can phone him to come to home."

"But I have got to meet our senior partner at eight o'clock and go to the train with him," said Mr. Proudfoot, desperately.

"Your senior partner went away yesterday. You told me so yourself."

"Well, even at that, said he, in a final attempt to get by gracefully, 'even at that, I promised to make the fourth in a game of whist over at Mr. Podnap's tonight, and I've got to go.' Mr. and Mrs. Podnap are up at Charlevoix, and have been there ever since the first of July. I'm really sorry, Erasmus."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

"ALABAMA!"
A band of weary Indians, "tribes of the wandering foot," driven from place to place, after a long pilgrimage finally crossed a broad river and, setting up their tepees, exclaimed:

"Alabama!"
The meaning of the word in the Indian tongue is, "Here we rest." And thus it was, according to legend, that the state of Alabama got its name.

The sequel we know. Where the poor aborigines hoped to find rest and a home they found only room for graves.

And so of us all. Driven hither and yon by the whip of circumstance, we look outward to the day when we shall cross the river. Difficultly and, setting up our pilgrim staves, say to ourselves:

"Alabama! Here we rest!" We say: "When the business is thoroughly on its feet we will take it easy. Now we must work and economize." Finally the business is established. "Well, the children must be educated." Finally the children are educated. "But now they are getting married and must be helped or started in business."

And so it goes. Or if the children are started and established there are relatives needing help or a worthy cause to be aided. And thus we glide and save and walk the dusty highways, ending all ways eager eyes toward the Alabama of our hopes. And thus we carry our burdens until some day we drop them by the side of an open grave.

Is it not better so? We need something to live for and work for and suffer for and die for, else life would be insipid and commonplace. The burden steadies the feet.

When your work in the world has all been done, then, and not till then, can you say to your soul, "Alabama." And who that is able to carry burdens is really to say that his work is done? As Stevenson somewhere says in effect, Who would not prefer to go plunging over the edge of life like a Niagara rather than dribble in the ineffectual stream?

As opposed to the "Alabama" of mortal accomplishment let us prefer the epitaph that is written on the flat stone over the grave of that soldier of Padua:

"Here lie who never rested rests."

nent men throughout the state among state have been secured to deliver addresses.

PROGRESSIVES MET IN MADISON FRIDAY

Wisconsin Branch National Progressive League Seriously Consider La Follette's Nomination.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—While no action on the proposal was taken, it is believed that the executive committee of the Wisconsin branch of the National Progressive League, which met here yesterday afternoon, will give serious consideration to active support of Senator Robert M. La Follette for president.

La Follette accepted the nomination of Secretary P. J. Mahon and decided to postpone election of a successor for several weeks. The president and secretary were delegated to make arrangements for a meeting of the Wisconsin league at Milwaukee in the latter part of October.

When the meeting opened, copies of the declaration of principles of the National Progressive league were given to each member and it is believed the discussion centered on the wisdom of openly avowing the Wisconsin branch with La Follette's cause. There is serious intention of devising some plan whereby this may be done by extraordinary means of the committee.

The members of the committee present were: Senator A. W. Sanborn,
Ashland, president; Assemblyman
John Mahon, Elkhart, secretary; A. M.
Standa, Madison, treasurer; Frank Haglund, Lake Geneva; William Matthae, Fond du Lac; Col. John Hicks, Oaklath.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

PIONEER RESIDENT OF COUNTY IS DEAD

Mrs. Agnes Carson, Over Fifty Years
a Resident of Town of Porter, Died Early This Morning.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Agnes Carson, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of the county, died early this morning at her home five miles west of this city in the town of Porter. She had been in failing health for the past two or three years, but had been seriously ill for only a few weeks.

Agnes Leighton was born in England, June 22, 1834. When a small child she went to Ireland with her parents and lived there until she was eighteen years of age. At that time she left with her sister for New York City.

On June 3, 1857 she was married to John Carson and the same year they came west to Wisconsin, locating in the town of Porter. Mr. Carson engaged in farming in that township and Mrs. Carson has resided continuously on the homestead for over fifty years.

She was the mother of eight children, all of whom are living with the exception of one son, John, who died when only five years old. The children surviving are: Mrs. Elizabeth Roscoe, Chicago; Miss Margaret Carson, who lives at home; Mrs. Ella Peach, Edgerton; Miss Martha Car-

also leaves one brother, Samuel Leighton, of Belfast, Ireland; and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Allen and Miss Kate Leighton, of New York City.

Her husband died twenty years ago.
The deceased was always a faithful

Rattler Caught by Fly Paper.
W. C. Schmalla, living near Midland, was attracted by a commotion in one room of his house, and investigating found that a rattlesnake which had ventured in at the open door had got tangled up with a sheet of sticky fly paper and was tying himself into closer and closer knots in his efforts to get away. The snake could not break loose from the hold on the paper and was soon put out of the way
by the use of a handy club.—Morre

A Motor Mascot.

The inventor of the latest mascot for the motorist evidently thinks one amulet will not prevent a smash-up, so has combined fire of the best-known emblems of good luck into one.

If you would make sure of coming home whole—machine and body—on your next tour, go equipped with this new mascot. It consists of the horseshoe with lucky upturned points and seven nailholes. At the base, inside the horseshoe, is one of the charm ornaments of the kings of Babylon, an emblem of good fortune with ancient Romans—a wheel of the sun chariot.

Above the wheel are two lunar crescents, typical of a lucky new moon.
Topping all is the "swastika," meaning happiness, pleasure, good luck. If after that one comes a cropper she is born under an evil star or has an abominable chauffeur.

Buttermilk for Gout.
If you are troubled with gout you should drink at least one quart of buttermilk a day. It is said to have the property of keeping various salts dissolved in the blood and thus is useful in gout. It promotes the circulation.

Bar Common Drinking Cups.

New York, Sept. 30.—Following the example set by Massachusetts, New Jersey and several other states, New York city will tomorrow put into force a law to prohibit the use of "common drinking cups" in any place of public resort or employment, such as parks, theatres, schools, railroad stations, factories and workshops.

Long Service of Negro Postmaster.
Port Gibson, Miss., Sept. 30.—Leaving behind him a record that has few parallels in the annals of the postoffice department, Thomas Richardson, a negro, today voluntarily retired from the office of postmaster of this city.
Richardson has served continuously as postmaster of Port Gibson since 1870, with the exception of President Cleveland's eight-year period, when he was supplanted by a white Democrat.

Bryan's Wedding Anniversary.
Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 30.—With a gathering of members of their family and a few intimate friends, Mr. and Mrs.
William J. Bryan will celebrate their twenty-seventh wedding anniversary tomorrow at Fairview. The marriage of Mr. Bryan and Miss Mary E. Blair took place Oct. 1, 1884, at the home of the bride's parents in Perry, Ill., one year after Mr. Bryan had been admitted to the bar.

TREMENDOUS MOTOR CAR BUSINESS DONE IN UNITED STATES

New York Experts State There Will be One Car For Every 180 Persons in 1912—Madison Square Garden Torn Down—The Fastest Flying Yet—Other New York News Notes.

New York, Sept. 30.—That next year there will be in use in this country at least 500,000 automobiles, or one for every 180 persons in the country, is the conservative estimate made by the local experts. Of these it is estimated that the metropolitan district, as the territory lying within fifty miles of the New York City Hall is known, will have between 75,000 and 100,000. Just what these enormous figures mean is better understood by their translation into financial terms. To show these half million cars, for instance, will require 4,000,000 tires, which at an average price of $25.00 each will amount to the tidy sum of $100,000,000. As 175,000 cars were produced during the ten months ending in November last year, it is safe to figure that the figure for this year will be at least 225,000. Pictured at an average selling price of $1,500.00 a car, this means that the American public has now reached a point where it is spending over a third of a billion dollars annually for cars, to say nothing of the cost of their maintenance and operation. So fast has the automobile industry grown in fact that it now ranks sixth in this country, and figures show that within the last ten years approximately $1,055,000,000 has been expended on these vehicles. At this rate of growth another decade should bring forth enough automobiles to supply one for every family, unless the aeroplane supercedes the auto, just as the latter superceded the bicycle in popular favor.

Replace Madison Garden.
It is now definitely announced that New York is to have a great amusement building to take the place of the historic Madison Square Garden, soon to be torn down. For nearly a quarter of a century the Madison Square Garden has been the home of the horse show, athletic meets, automobile shows, six day bicycle races and all the similar attractions to which the public flocks by thousands. When it was announced that it was to be torn down, immediately arose the question as to where similar shows could be housed in the future, as there is no other building in the city adequate to such needs. The announcement of the new building, however, has dispelled much doubt since it will not only be far larger than the old garden, but much better equipped in every way. Covering a square block in area it will be thirteen stories in height of which the upper ten floors will be devoted to sports. The arena will be 130 feet 9 inches in length by 112 feet wide. On the main floor there will be 3,688 orchestra seats and 13,000 boxes, giving 5,688 extra seats. This is greater by 13 boxes and 1,687 orchestra seats than the garden. In the first balcony there will be 2,483 seats, as against 11,068 in the garden, while a second balcony will afford seating accommodations for 1,000, or 505 more than the second balcony in the garden. The total seating capacity, therefore, of the new arena will be 8,622, which is nearly 3,000 more than Madison Square Garden affords. In addition when the arena, or central floor space is used for large conventions or other meetings, chairs can be placed for 4,400 more persons, giving seating capacity, when all the available space is utilized, of 13,000. Curiously enough the same attraction, that is, prize fighting, which filled the garden in the early days is becoming in its last days the result of the law legalizing boxing.

"Paradise Jimmy."
The recent death of "Paradise Jimmy" otherwise, though much less frequently known by his official title of Assemblyman Oliver, has deprived not only the Bowery which he represented, but the whole state of one of the most picturesque figures in its political history. His case has been cited locally more often than that of any other man as an illustration of the opportunities awaiting the homeless boy. Incidentally his career was bound up with that of "Big Tim" Sullivan, for many years a controlling factor in Tammany Hall. Many years ago a shivering, half-starved little newboy stood peering through the window of a bowery bakery due Winter morning. A young baker within saw him and was moved to pity. He surreptitiously passed out a hot roll. Every morning thereafter the newboy appeared in front of the bakery shop. The hot roll never failed. It was, partly through the timely ministrations of those meagre breakfasts that the newboy survived and became "Big Tim" Sullivan, leader of the Bowery. Then he hunted up his benefactor of the bakery and made him a political power. That benefactor was James Oliver and he proved a powerful ally to "Big Tim" just as he had years before. He gained his nickname as the result of one of his flowery speeches in advocacy of the establishment of a certain park which he claimed would be "a paradise for the souls of sunny boys." After the bit of rhetoric he was always known as "Paradise Jimmy." Incidentally, he was the originator of the idea of children's outings given by political leaders.

Aviating Up-To-Date.
While a number of aviators are now attempting, or have announced their determination to attempt to fly across the country in an effort to win the $50,000 prize offered for the first person to ocean flight, a Brooklyn mechanic has just completed a device which he claims will enable him to go from New York to San Francisco in a little over three hours. This completely refuting the efforts of the other birdmen who struggle along at the rate of a hundred miles a day.

briefly stated, the novel scheme of the Brooklyn inventor is not to fly to San Francisco, but to let that city fly to him. Having his researches on the fact that the earth turns from west to east at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour, he claims to have invented a machine in which by means of an anti-gravity force and a system of electric plungers, he can ascend a few thousand feet and then remain stationary while the earth slides underneath him until the desired landing spot arrives in view. Of course, he would have to consider that there was no such thing as east on his compass, since even were the town he wished to reach in his novel contrivance only one mile east of his starting point, he would have to let the whole world turn under him before he could alight at his destination. Just as soon as he can find the necessary financial backing he proposes to make the trans-continental trip between breakfast and lunch, and later to circle the globe in a non-stop twenty-four hour flight.

Dirty in New York.
Director Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo has given the complacency of New Yorkers a severe blow by declaring that there is more unnecessary dirt and disorder in the streets here than in almost any other big city. He raises the banner of reform on a platform containing the following demands: Five thousand additional refuse cans on the city streets, the posting of an equal number of warning notices in four different languages, and a proclamation by the Mayor announcing that the law against throwing litter in the streets is to be enforced. Most important of all, he concludes, "Every adult offender should be snatched off the streets and hustled into court."

Since Establishment of System of Savings Fifty Years Ago, Number of Banks Increased Fifty Times.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
London, Sept. 30.—The British post office savings bank celebrated its jubilee on September 16, it having been established in 1861. At that time 300 post-offices throughout the kingdom started a savings bank business. The number has grown until 15,000 post-offices in the United Kingdom now provide facilities for banking savings. According to the latest reports these postal savings banks have eight million depositors, with £169,000,000 to their credit. The postal savings banks have been a success from the start.

Replace Madison Garden.
It is now definitely announced that New York is to have a great amusement building to take the place of the historic Madison Square Garden, soon to be torn down. For nearly a quarter of a century the Madison Square Garden has been the home of the horse show, athletic meets, automobile shows, six day bicycle races and all the similar attractions to which the public flocks by thousands. When it was announced that it was to be torn down, immediately arose the question as to where similar shows could be housed in the future, as there is no other building in the city adequate to such needs. The announcement of the new building, however, has dispelled much doubt since it will not only be far larger than the old garden, but much better equipped in every way. Covering a square block in area it will be thirteen stories in height of which the upper ten floors will be devoted to sports. The arena will be 130 feet 9 inches in length by 112 feet wide. On the main floor there will be 3,688 orchestra seats and 13,000 boxes, giving 5,688 extra seats. This is greater by 13 boxes and 1,687 orchestra seats than the garden. In the first balcony there will be 2,483 seats, as against 11,068 in the garden, while a second balcony will afford seating accommodations for 1,000, or 505 more than the second balcony in the garden. The total seating capacity, therefore, of the new arena will be 8,622, which is nearly 3,000 more than Madison Square Garden affords. In addition when the arena, or central floor space is used for large conventions or other meetings, chairs can be placed for 4,400 more persons, giving seating capacity, when all the available space is utilized, of 13,000. Curiously enough the same attraction, that is, prize fighting, which filled the garden in the early days is becoming in its last days the result of the law legalizing boxing.

BIG RUSH AT LAND OPENING
Northwestern Officials Prepare for Heavy Traffic to Rosebud.

Dallas, S. D., Sept. 30.—According to estimates of Northwestern railroad officials, the registration rush for the Rosebud and Pine Ridge opening, October 2 to 21, will be the heaviest in the history of government land drawings. It is expected the rush for the next three weeks up the Dallas branch will be practically double that of the last big opening.

As a part of the preliminary arrangements the road has lined up for the special service 150 coaches, 26 engines and 24 extra passenger crews.

Dis of Rattlesnake Bite.
St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Elizabeth Schmebeck, thirty-five years old, died as the result of a bite of a rattlesnake, which attacked her in her garden.

He Took It Back.
A woman with a shrill, weak voice addressed a small crowd at Broadway and One Hundred and Tenth street on Thursday evening from a crude little platform which had been erected for the purpose. She spoke for women's suffrage, earnestly and as forcefully as her voice would permit, but the audience seemed to remain unmoved and rather inclined to make fun of the earnest talker until she spoke of May. or Garret's action in refusing to interfere when the girls who did picket duty at the time of the shirtwaist makers' strike were arrested. "It was a case of no protection for women," she said, and a big man with his coat on his arm and his hat off shouted: "Good for you—the boys are the stuff!" Then he asked the boy who stood next to him: "Say, is this a labor meeting?" "No—a suffragette meeting—that's what it is." Then the warm man shouted once more: "I take it back," and walked down Broadway.—New York Tribune.

Care of a Piano.
When closing the house for a short vacation take precautions to keep moths out of the piano forte. The back of every key is surrounded with felt, on each hammer are little pads of felt and the soft substance is found in various other places "inside the case." Moths and mice will ruin a piano in a very short time if care is not taken to prevent them from doing so. Gum camphor loses its pungency soon; moth balls lose a disagreeable odor for a long time after they are removed; but some sticks of sandalwood, or a bit of cotton saturated with this odorous oil, will keep away moths quite as well as other "smelly" stuffs, and is a pleasant perfume at the same time. Also take care to place small blocks of paper of wood under the pedals. Moths will always find their way into a piano through these open places.

First English Horse Race.
Chester, England, claims to be the birthplace of English horse racing, and its first contest was in 1609, when three bells were hung up as a prize by the mayor.

FIND SLAIN GIRL IN WOODS

Body of Nude Woman Discovered Near Dixon, Ill.

Nothing was found on the body that would lead to identification.

The woman in the case was about twenty-five years old and must have been a beautiful woman.

A wound in the neck three inches deep and an inch wide probably made by a knife stab was found severing the jugular vein.

RAIL RETURNS IN SLUMP

Net Operating Revenue Shows June Decrease of 6.9 Per Cent.

Washington, Sept. 30.—June returns from 94 per cent. of all the steam railway mileage in the United States show a decrease in the net operating revenue per mile of $23, or 6.9 per cent., according to a "summary of revenue and expenses" issued by the bureau of railway economics, maintained by the railroads in this city.

JEALOUSY IS FATAL TO TWO

Iowa Farmer Shoots Neighbor's Wife, Then Kills Self.

Glenwood, Ia., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Walter Marshall, a farmer's wife, aged twenty-six, was shot and killed in her home half a mile west of Hillsdale by Frank Shroud, aged fifty-six, who later committed suicide. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the double crime.

Two Men Killed on Trestle.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—In a desperate race with death over a trestle of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Snowden station, near here, two men lost. They were killed by a passenger train which overtook them about midway on the trestle.

Unwilling to Discourage.

It is related of Goldwin Smith that, when at Cornell, an ambitious student, with a superabundance of "college spirit," approached him with the query: "How long will it take for Cornell to become equal to Oxford?" Professor Smith, unwilling to discourage the youth, and not wishing to treat him with levity, solemnly replied: "Probably about 500 years."

Advantage of Concrete Buildings.

It has been shown in practice that concrete buildings require less artificial light than those of slow burning mill construction. This is owing to the reflection of light from the white walls and ceilings and columns and also to the fact that it is possible to supply buildings of this character with greater window area.

How to Remove Paint.

To remove paint take two pounds of sal soda, one-half pound of lime, one gallon hot water. Stir all together and apply while still warm to the old paint. The mixture will soon loosen the paint so you can easily scrape it off.

Dead From a Thorn Thrust.

A thorn of her favorite rose puncturing her finger while she stretched forth her hand to pluck it for a friend's bouquet, caused the death of Miss Susan Reichart at Greenport, N. Y. Several doctors united in trying to cure the blood poisoning that resulted from the piercing wound, but their efforts were unavailing.

Brown-Tupper Wedding.
New York, Sept. 30.—A wedding of interest to society today was that of Miss Katherine Boyce Tupper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Allen Tupper of this city and a relative of Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian statesman, and Clifton Stevenson Brown, a prominent lawyer of Baltimore. The ceremony took place at noon at the home of the bride's parents in Gramercy Park.

Will Build Road in One Day.
Chickasha, Okla., Sept. 30.—At sunrise Monday morning the entire male population of Grady County will turn out en masse and with the aid of several hundred teams will start work on the construction of an improved highway along the route of the Chisholm trail, a distance of nearly 100 miles. It is proposed to complete the building of the entire road in one day.

Human Nature.
No two persons are ever more confidential and cordial than when they are censuring a third.

Note.—The above is the cut that the Bible Press wanted but didn't get, which the Bible Press did get. Therefore the Bible Press is entitled to the cut in every detail but the cut has been published evidently to mislead and deceive Janesville readers. The cut is a better one.

I must exult! My success is assured! Humanity is to know and receive the advantages of my discovery! When I can gain the ill will and public reviews of sheets like the Beloit News and Janesville Recorder so that they advertise and discuss my discoveries without cost to me and cause worthy people to demand that I present my discoveries before them personally so that they may get at the facts which they know these papers wish to suppress. When such corporations desiring to keep the people uninformed so that they are more easily misled, stir and ridicule the things that God has created, then must I rejoice for it tends the earnest ones to me or to the Bible references on my diagrams and they find the suppressed truth therein. Evidently The Beloit News and Janesville Recorder do not want their readers to find the stairway that will lead humanity up out of misery and injustice unto a better arrangement of life on this globe.

No incompetent reporter, picked through and through with tobacco, liquor, tea, coffee and drugs can ever comprehend nor present to the readers of any paper any idea of The Mechanisms that God has arranged for the guidance of those who look directly to Him for The Truth that will free humanity from all present misery. "For they are foolishness unto him neither can he know them then because they are spiritually discerned." See 1 Cor. 2:14-15. ### BUY YOUR STOVES NOW

I have just received a car load of ranges, heaters, cook stoves, round oaks and air tights, of all sizes and descriptions. Stoves for any sized family, ranging from the occupant of the single room to the largest family.

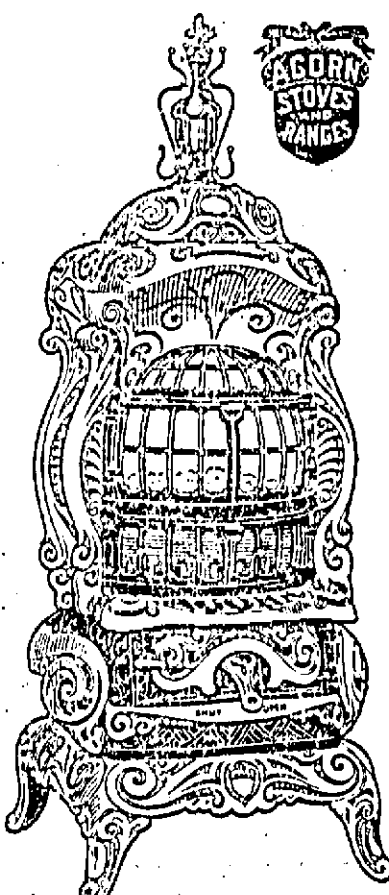

The "ACORN" line was selected by me from a large list of manufacturers as being, in my judgment, the best stove on the market today, and will be my leading line.

Rathbone, Sard & Co. have been making stoves for the past 70 years and the "ACORN" is the finished product of all these years of stove building.

There are many hundreds of the "ACORN" stoves in Janesville and vicinity, and it unnecessary for me to say anything about the quality of these goods as the users of them are the best recommendation which can be given to them. I will make prices on these stoves which will move them and the public knows me well enough to know that when I talk price and quality it means a saving.

These Prices Range From $1.25 to $55.00

COME IN AND LOOK OVER THE "ACORN" LINE TO-NIGHT AND IF YOU HAVE ANY IDEA OF BUYING A STOVE YOU WILL NOT LEAVE THE STORE WITHOUT HAVING PURCHASED.

NO MAN'S LAND A ROMANCE

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WAUTERS

COPYRIGHT, 1911, BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE.

"Blackstock jumped up," Applayard said as the catboat rolled. "I had my back turned, you know—just as the Chinaman dropped on you like a load of bricks. Before I knew what was up, the brute had me in a hold I couldn't break—both arms pinioned. Then he snatched my gun out of my pocket and threw me after you—to the other side of the catboard. I lit on my feet, but the doors were slammed and bolted before I could turn round, and it was all over but the shouting. . . . There was plenty of that, for Blackstock wanted a lot of valuable time trying to start the motor before he told Chang to 'hoist the sail. By then the longboat was close in and Blackstock, warning her to keep off, or he'd shoot. Right then somebody in the boat started something—the bullet lodged in the side, by the sound of it. The longboat humped up, and there was the dickens of a shindig going on overhead. I gathered that Chang distinguished himself with a boathook, using it as a flail, and Blackstock must have had another gun besides mine from the way he kept popping. 'The other gang kept busy, too; but they hadn't the heart for it Blackstock and Chang had, and after a bit they wheeled off and gave it up. . . . 'Somehow or other Chang got the sail up, and we began to move. There was some growling overhead, and then a fall, with Blackstock cussing moderate, but steady, but we skimmed along as steadily and prettily as you please. That was over an hour ago—say an hour and a half; and ever since then this lunctious business has been going on. I lighted the lamp and attacked the door with a screw-driver—the only crowbar I could find—bent that out of shape and yelled myself hoarse without any result. My private opinion is that both of 'em were pretty well shot up before they got away, and are now in no shape to go pleasure-boating. . . . 'That sounds reasonable,' said Const, preoccupied. He reviewed the situation briefly, then bent over and with the twisted screw-driver pried up one of the dock planks, which had been left unnailed, though tightly fitted, to facilitate the placing of ballast. In the aperture revealed a number of bricks of lead lay against the center board trunk, in a thin wash of bilge water. Const picked one up, balancing it in his hand while he replaced the plank. The bar of lead was solid and very heavy—of the shape and weight technically known as a 'fifty-six.' . . . 'Right,' commented Applayard; 'that may do the trick. Come over on this side, if you please, Mrs. Blackstock,' he added, as Const rose and facing the door balanced himself as carefully as the scant headroom of the tiny cabin would permit. 'If the door should hold by accident, that thing's liable to bounce back like a rubber ball, only much more so. You might as well keep out of the way.' . . . When Katherine had quietly complied, Const, the fifty-six poised near his shoulder, waited until the Echo momentarily rode with an even keel, then with all his might bent it crashing against the panels of the starboard door. They yielded like paper, leaving a ragged hole, through which he thrust an arm, groping for the bolt. This found and drawn, he pushed the door back and ascended, Applayard following. . . . To his immense astonishment, both sky and sea were stark and bright with moonlight. . . . Behind him he heard the little man's quiet and courteous voice: 'Better not come up just yet, Mrs. Blackstock. A little later.' . . . At her feet, blocking the cockpit with his huge body and long, massively proportioned limbs, Chang lay supine and inert, half across the engine, into which one limp arm dangled. What time the shadow of the sail and swinging boom did not blot it out ininky blackness, the moonlight struck cold and hard upon the evil, grinning mask of death that was his face. . . . Swaying drunkenly, Blackstock occupied the wheelbox, his fat white hands loose of grasp upon the spokes and moved by rather than controlling it. His head sagged low upon his chest, swaying heavily from side to some refreshingly personal opinion as to the general and perverse intractability of the feminine sex. . . . Balancing himself before Blackstock, who in the interim had sunk into a semblance of lethargy, he measured out a good half glass of brandy to an equal amount of water, tucked the bottle, securely corked, beneath his arm, and roused the wounded man with a touch as gentle and considerate as his attitude and words were rough. 'Here,' he said; 'get this down, and we'll make an examination, Blackstock.' . . . Applayard holding the glass to his lips, Blackstock drank greedily. 'Thanks,' he muttered huskily as the little man took away the glass drained to the final drop. . . . 'Don't thank me—I can't my brandy. If it was, I doubt I'd give you any.' He moved off and placed the bottle and the glass in a corner, where they were in no danger of overturning, now that a trained and steady hand was at the helm and the Echo moving smoothly and easily to a landing wind. 'Now, hark a mo', he continued, 'I'm going to get this motor going—and with this he dropped into the open engine-room—and then I'll have a look at your wounds.' He bent over and began to rock the flywheel. . . . Slowly the warning spirit worked a change in Blackstock, lending him a fleetness and evanescent sense of strength. He straightened up against the back of the seat, a faint touch of color dyeing his cheeks, and with a peculiar half-smile watched the little man at work. . . . 'What's the use?' he asked abruptly in a voice more clear than heretofore. . . . 'What's the use of what?' asked Applayard sharply, looking up. . . . 'Of troubling with me—trying to save my life?' . . . 'Oh . . . With a sudden cough the motor began to hum; Applayard sat down on the edge of the hatch coaming, fished his handkerchief and continued to eye the wounded man. 'I don't know,' he said with an air of open confession. 'I don't know, I'm sure. Business, so far as I'm concerned; commonplace humanity with Const, I presume; all that sort of non-sense. Why? Don't you want to be helped—saved?' . . . Soberly Blackstock shook his heavy head. 'No,' he said evenly. 'What's the use? I'm at the end of my tether, as far as getting any of the savor out of life's concerned. . . . Can't see the profit of clinging to what's going and about swaying while Applayard from his low seat and Const from his post of duty watched him in amazement. . . . 'Repentance?' said the man slowly, as if iterating some recently spoken word. He laughed briefly and without mirth. 'No; nothing like that. I'm not that sort . . . which you can't understand. . . . No; I'm just a hard loser, that's all. I've played the game I liked—which you can't understand either, for you played on the other side—and I've lost out. . . . It's over . . . and paid for . . . as much as I intend ever to pay. . . . He smiled again his curious, secret smile. . . . 'That's all. . . . Obituary: Here lies a bad loser. R. I. P. . . . Gentlemen! . . . He leaned heavily on the coaming. 'Kindly convey respects to wife—and regrets. . . . With an exclamation of awakening comprehension Applayard tried suddenly to lift himself out of the engine-room. Blackstock smiled strangely and pityingly down at him. . . . 'Too late,' he said. . . . 'That's all, O'-night. . . . Before Const had grasped an inkling of his purpose the man, placing a foot upon the seat, put forth his final ounce of strength and plunged over the side. . . . Const put the wheel down hard and swung the Echo up into the wind. A glance at their wake showed him a spot of yeast, churning water, silver upon the black. . . . As the boat came up he would have leaped from his place, but Applayard was too quick for him. . . . The hand of the little man struck flat against his chest and thrust him back upon the box. Simultaneously Applayard seized the wheel and sent the spoken spinning round to leeward. With a jerk the boom shot off and the minnow-like tautened. . . . 'Not!' cried Applayard, his small, wizened face singularly white and solemn in the moonlight. 'No; let him go—let him go the way he wants to go. I tell you—whatever God he owns, with this, at least one decent act to plead for mercy on his soul!'

Bees Preempted Letter Box.

A surprise awaited a rural postman the other day when he set about collecting letters from a box at Alkottgate, near Armanthwaite, Cumberland, England. He found it occupied by a swarm of bees, which made him beat a retreat. Later in the day, a gentleman accustomed to bees succeeded in getting them away.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve back-ache.

Cure every kidney ill. Janesville citizens endorse them. Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 118 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: 'I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for ten or twelve years. My kidneys became sluggish and their failure to do their work properly, caused me to become weak and helpless. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and often my joints were sore and swollen. I had almost given up hope of getting relief when I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. and they soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I advise other kidney sufferers to try this remedy.' (Statement given in August, 1905.)

Confirmed Proof. Mrs. Johnson was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she added to the above: 'I take pleasure in again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and advising their use in all cases of kidney trouble. I am still free from kidney complaint and my back does not bother me to any extent.'

That's All. 'O'-night. . . .

To be a burden to me from now on. . . . Prefer to be let alone.

He swung his head as though it were lead, to bring his gaze to rest on Const; for a full minute he eyed him steadily, wonderingly; then with a little nod he withdrew his lips with his tongue. 'Besides,' he said, with more perceptible strain, 'I'm only in the way. With me out of it, everything'll run more smoothly for all of you.'

By a mysteriously reinforced effort he lifted himself suddenly to his feet.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY REMEDY (Liquid) is a great medicine of proven value for both acute and chronic kidney and bladder ailments and for annoying urinary irregularities. It is especially recommended to elderly people for its wonderful tonic and reconstructive qualities and the permanent relief and comfort it gives them. L. McConnell, 117 Catherine St., Elmira, N. ## CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A KINGDOM IN LAKE MICHIGAN.

By A. W. MACY.

A Kingdom was once set up on Beaver Island, in northern Lake Michigan, and flourished for some years. James Jesse Strang, a prominent Mormon, had quarreled with the leaders of his church, and in 1846 withdrew with a few followers to that island. Other Mormons joined the colony from time to time, and by the winter of 1848 they were sufficiently numerous to threaten control of the island. On July 8, 1850, Strang was crowned king with elaborate ceremonies. There was much controversy between the Mormons and the other inhabitants of the island, mostly farmers. While on a visit to Detroit President Fillmore heard of this little kingdom within the domain of the United States. He sent an armed vessel to Beaver Island and King Strang was captured and tried for treason. He conducted his own defense, and made such an eloquent plea that he was acquitted. In 1856 he was assassinated, and his kingdom fell with him.

A Great Advantage to Working Men. J. A. Maple, 125 S. 7th St., St. Louis, Mo., says: 'For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley's Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business associates, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. Foley's Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise.' Badger Drug Co.

Why He Was Exhausted. A party of men went out from a Texan town to hunt ducks, and one of the men got separated from the rest. By four o'clock in the afternoon he had 12 ducks and one brand, and concluded he would return home. He was less than three miles from town at the time, but the rushes were so high that he could not see the houses. All that night he wandered, and all the next day, until at sunset, among rushes ten feet high, he suddenly came to the river bank. Then he didn't know which way to go, but finally decided on down stream, which luckily happened to be in the right direction. About ten o'clock at night he staggered into town, utterly prostrated, and not until he reached his own home did he realize that he was still carrying nearly fifty pounds of birds, which he had forgotten he was encumbered with.

"THE AVIATOR"

The aeroplane interest in the literature of the day will do much to make the public familiar, not only with aviation terms and technical questions, but with actual progress in the science. It will tend to diminish the common fear of flying. Every mention of the machine for navigating the air in the story or play, even jokingly, is a step in the public eye. For speaking constantly for or against some certain object makes everyone curious to understand just what it is. Were it possible, we would mention several short stories, here which contain aeronautic interest, but these are too numerous. Only one play has been written, however, where aviation interest is sustained throughout. There are several short sketches now on the vaudeville stage, but "The Aviator" as it was produced last fall in New York was the first real play to appear. The story and play will certainly tend to aeroplane advancement, although much of the comedy is derived from the possibilities of accident to the hero who finds it imperative that he must fly a monoplane when he has absolutely no experience. That he should finally go up and make good with a seventy mile flight is of course impractical in real life, but more than allowable in a play. This excellent comedy with a Real Monoplane XI Monoplane will be at The Myers Theatre Monday Oct. 2.

AT MYERS THEATRE, MONDAY, OCT. 2, MATINEE AND EVENING.

Billie is finally exposed when the real and the masquerading Mrs. Winrow confront one another. They had been disguised with feminine attire, confessions, and Uncle Huglewood is about to explode with wrath. A sudden invasion of the house by the bill collectors, however, wins his sympathy back to his scape-grace nephew. When Jessilyn says that she will marry Billy, he forgives him, and the dilemma is happily solved for everyone.

The Girl I Love will be presented at The Myers Theatre Wednesday Oct. 18.

"The Girl I Love" is a musical comedy in two acts. The first shows, in a beautiful landscape view, the lawn and fields of Happy Hollow Farm, in the Catskills, with the bungalow home of proprietors Billy Philbin. The second reveals the cozy interior of the bungalow with beamed ceilings and weathered oak panels.

A part of the action is supposed to have taken place almost a year before the rise of the curtain. Jeremiah Huglewood, wealthy and philanthropic, has made a proposition to his only nephew and heir, the gay and festive Billy Philbin. The latter has been bowling too many wild ones along the Gay White Way, and Old Man Huglewood, decides to compel him to harvest a crop of the same variety. He allows him $25,000 for one year's experiment in the rural life of Happy Hollow Farm, in the Catskills, but makes stringent rules against visits to the wicked metropolis.

When the curtain goes up, a number of Billy's guests are seriously trying to make themselves believe that they are leaders of the farmer's life. Silas Winrow, the practical farmer of Happy Hollow, doesn't agree with them, however, he thinks that things are going to rack and ruin. Billy has spent all of his money, and bill collectors are hounding him, threatening to throw the farm into the hands of the sheriff if he doesn't settle. Winrow is married to the housekeeper at Happy Hollow, and they have a baby, who is being cared for by a German nurse maid Lena. She has served notice that she intends to return to the Fatherland, and that she will have to surrender the child, but while Mrs. Winrow goes to town to get the young hound, Lena comes to the farm, and wanders about the house, and suddenly, looking for someone to take the squalling mite out of her hands.

Then in a flurry of excitement, Jack Haddam, Billy's chum arrives. He has made a night trip from New York to Happy Hollow in a taxicab, and at the end of the trip he discovers that he has left all his money behind him. Skid Dooley, the chauffeur, and also an expulsiat, threatens Haddam with physical violence if he can't pay the enormous bill of $212.75 in short order, and Haddam has hopes of being able to borrow it from Billy. But that spendthrift is having financial troubles of his own, from the bill collectors, and tells Haddam that he will have to make peace with the chauffeur in his own way.

Billy in the meantime has been getting deeper and deeper into trouble. In order to get more money from his uncle, he had wired him that he was married, and needed $25,000 more. He had also brought up to his party Miss Jessilyn, Jack's sister, with whom he had been romancing during his society life in New York, intending to marry her before his uncle arrived. Jessilyn, though fond of Billy, was not to be won by such a hurry, and Mr. Huglewood, arrives to congratulate Billy and kiss the bride altogether too soon. The young man tells him a variegated tale of lies in order to explain the absence of his supposed wife, but Uncle Huglewood gets peevish and is about to go back to New York, and cut Billy out of his will, when enter Maddam disguised as Mrs. Winrow.

"Hello, Billy, how do you like me in my fancy gown?" she asks. "Jack, my boy, you've saved my life," Billy shouts, as a new idea hits him, and he promptly presents him to Mr. Huglewood as his wife. The old man is mollified, and decides to stay for the Hallowe'en party that evening, in order to get better acquainted with

STATE IS DIVIDED BY TAX COMMISSION IN FORTY DISTRICTS

Have Announced the Various Divisions Made For Purpose of Enforcing Income Tax and Amount Expected From Each.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—The state tax commission has completed the division of the state into assessment districts under the new income tax law, and fixed the salary of the assessors to be appointed for each district. The state is divided into forty districts, consisting of one, two or three counties in each district. The division was made as nearly as practicable on the basis of population, assessed valuation and compactness for convenience of administration. The law provides that no district shall consist of less than one county and the commission has not combined more than three counties in any one district. All the more populous and wealthy counties constitute single districts.

The division was made as follows:

Under the law the office of supervisor of assessment will be abolished after January 1, next, and the duties pertaining to that position will thereafter be performed by the assessor of incomes. Statistics compiled in the office show that the expense of supervisors of assessment throughout the state has been approximately $50,000 per year and the salaries fixed for the assessors of incomes do not exceed that amount, but they will be allowed their expenses in addition.

In fixing salaries the tax commission has aimed to limit the expense to the lowest figure that will secure efficient service. It is estimated that the total cost on the basis of the number of districts created and salaries fixed, excluding expenses of assessing corporations by the tax commission and clerical help in that department, will not exceed one-half the amount allowed to be expended under the act.

The salaries of assessors of incomes range from $800 in some of the sparsely settled districts to $3,600 in the city of Milwaukee. The districts generally range from $1,000 to $1,500. Naturally those districts having large manufacturing and commercial interests pay the highest salaries, but even in these districts salaries are comparatively low for the reason that such business is carried on mainly by corporations which the tax commission is required to assess directly. It is understood that civil service examinations for the position of assessor will be held early in November, and it is expected that a large number of candidates will apply. The tax commission states in a communication to the civil service commission that the division of the state into districts and fixing of salaries is tentative and reserves the right to modify them later should conditions arise which would make a modification necessary or more practical. It is assumed, however, that if any such changes are made they will be in a few instances only and in minor particulars.

HEALTH BULLETINS TO BE GIVEN OUT

University of Wisconsin to Protect Health of Students in New Way.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—Twelve bulletins on how to take care of the health are to be issued at intervals during the academic year by the committee on hygiene of the University of Wisconsin to the students of the institution.

The bulletins will be distributed free and will deal with such subjects as the care of the feet, rest and exercise, the use of patent medicines, and the care of the throat, mouth, and teeth.

The bulletin on the care of the feet will include directions on how to select proper shoes and an explanation of the life that results from wearing shoes with high heels, or those that are too narrow or too short. In order to warn students of the dangers of using patent medicine, a special bulletin on this subject will be issued.

"Outline of Economics" by Prof. Richard T. Ely of the University of Wisconsin, has just been translated into Spanish and will be used as a text-book in the public schools of Spain. This makes the fifth language into which "Outline of Economics" has been translated. Some years ago it was translated into German, and more recently into Dutch, Japanese and Swedish.

Prof. Ely has been studying economic conditions in Europe during the summer and will remain abroad until the opening of the second semester of the present school year. During the second semester he will conduct his regular courses in the University of Wisconsin.

The number of students enrolled in the University of Wisconsin this year is practically the same as the number enrolled at the corresponding time last year. Up to Thursday evening, 3,708 students had enrolled, which was ten less than had registered at the corresponding time last year. Students are still entering, but the present registration indicates that there will be no marked gain or loss noted when the total registration is completed. Indications are that the freshman class has not increased and is probably smaller than last year but a larger number of students have entered with advanced standing from colleges in Wisconsin and elsewhere.

That self government for students in the university is the best training for future citizens, was the keynote of President Charles R. Van Hise's first convocation address of the year when he spoke to the students of Wisconsin University.

"Of all the achievements of the University of Wisconsin there is none in which I take more pride than the establishment and development of self government by the students," said President Van Hise. "It means that the students are developing those qualities of leadership and service which will make them useful citizens of the commonwealth."

William M. Davis, professor of ge-
